And So

"What do you do?" They ask me.
And I answer, "I teach school."
Then follows a shrug and a pittying look
That says "Poor fool!"
"I wouldn't teach school," They tell me,
"If they paid me a thousand a day."
The very next time that happens
I'm going to stand right up and say—
"I'm doing the biggest job in the world,
Work that is second to none.
I'm using the finest materials
Under the sun.
I work with American children,
Vibrant, gay and human.
I wouldn't change jobs with anyone,
Not even President Truman."
And when they ask about my pay check,
I'll admit I often borrow,
"So what, my friend," I'll answer,
"I'm training citizens of tomorrow."
I know I'll never be wealthy
And fame I'll never win.
But, gee, I get a whale of a kick
From a youngster's friendly grin.

Would Move The World,
First Move Himself"

So in his way each contributes what he can.

Some sing—Betty Lee, Phyllis, Gail, Dolly, and Peggy; some make basketball goals—Mac and Frankie; two boys drive school buses—Brit and Bentley; some shine in Latin, some in Home Ec, and some in other things.

BUT ALL OF US TRY TO MAKE THIS A WORTHWHILE SCHOOL.

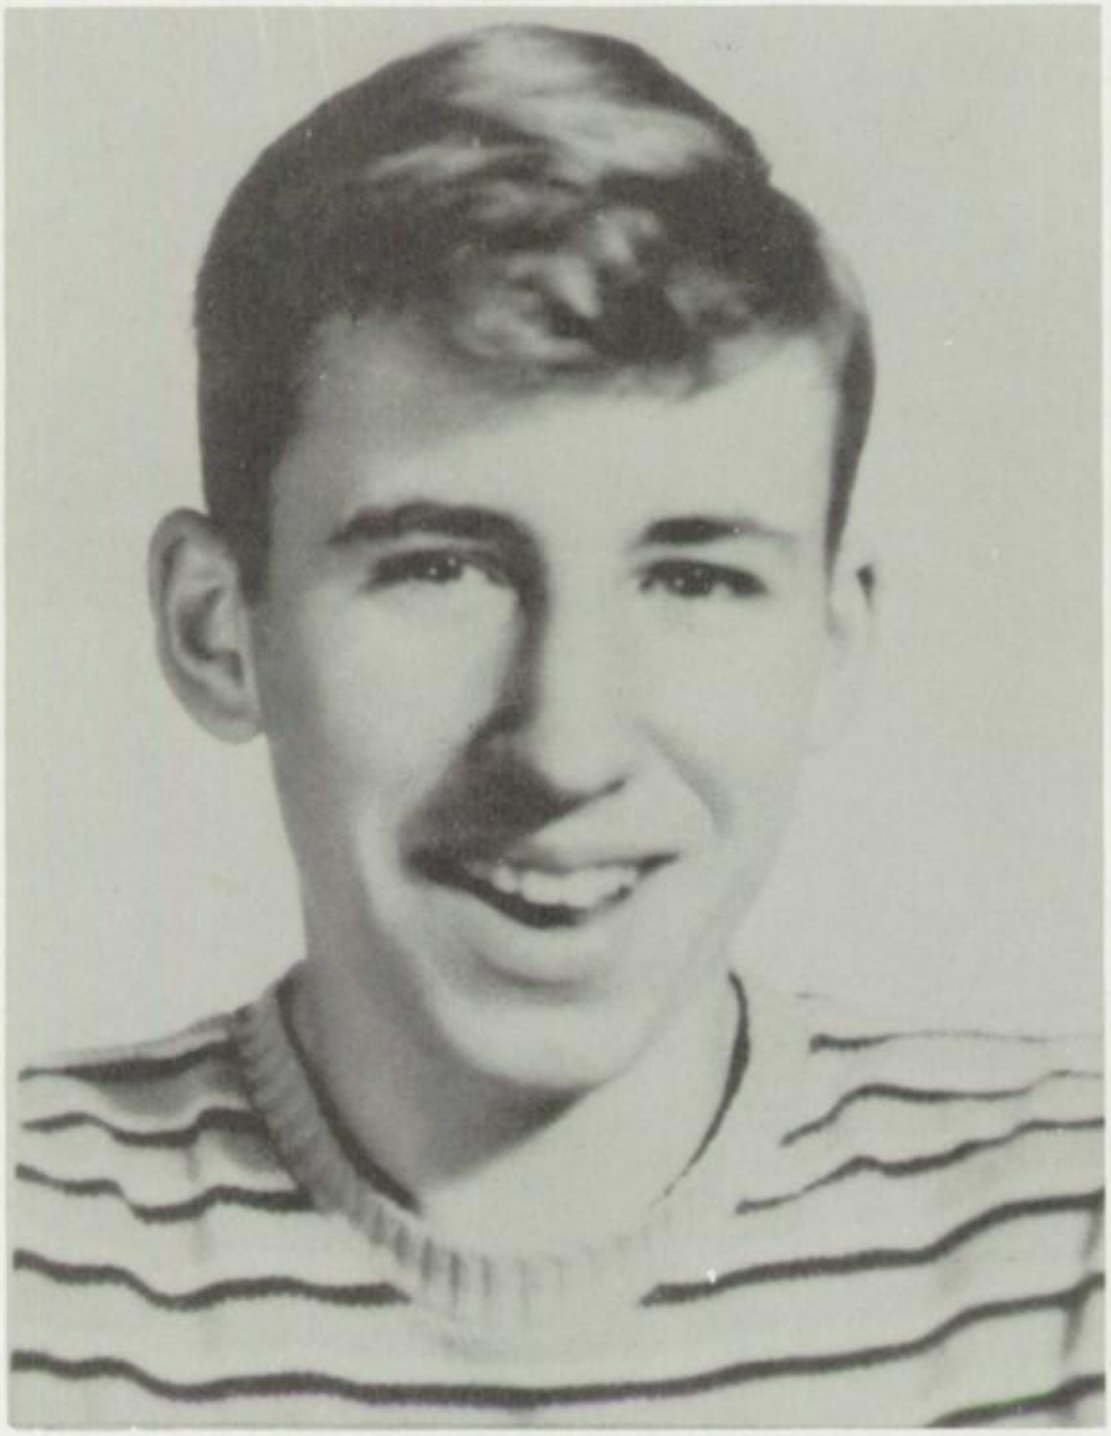
In Memory



The Junior Class humbly offers this tribute to Charles Lee Harman. We will always remember him as a true and very helpful friend, with a smile, a kind word, and a helping hand. His winning personality endeared him to his classmates and to those who knew him. The memories of Charles will always keep him alive in our hearts.
